Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, trading has continued rather slow in the San Francisco wholesale meat market. Slaughter has been light -- especially on beef. Prices are little changed from a week ago. Good hind-quarters and loins of beef are down $2.00 per hundredweight, as are spareribs. Sliced layer bacon has dropped $1.00 per hundredweight. All other classes are unchanged in price. Veal and calf offerings continue very light.

Prices have fluctuated a bit in the wholesale butter market. Top grades lost 2 cents, but as the result of an improved demand, have gained 1-cent back to a level only 1-cent below a week ago. Grades A&AA(1st Quality) are quoted to retailers at 68 to 69 cents per pound in cartons of 1/4-lb. prints. Grade B(2nd Quality) is also quoted 1-cent below a week ago at 66 to 67 cents per pound in cartons of 1/4-lb. prints. For the week ended Nov. 24, western butter production dropped 5 percent below the previous week, but was still 20 percent above a year ago.

In the egg market, declining prices in eastern and central states, coupled with liberal supplies and less demand, have resulted in a 5-cent price drop on Grade "A" Large eggs to a quotation to retailers of 60 to 61 cents per dozen in cartons. Grade "A" Mediums are unchanged at 49 to 51 cents per dozen, as are Grade "A" Smalls at 42 to 44 cents.

As is usually the trend after Thanksgiving, demand is slow in the wholesale poultry market. Dressed broilers and lightweight fryers are down 1-cent from a week ago, while heavier weights of fryers and roasters are 2 cents per pound lower. All weights of Loghorn hens have advanced 1-cent per pound. All other classes are unchanged in price.

Introduction

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of various factors on the growth and development of the human body. The study is based on a series of experiments conducted over a period of six months. The subjects of the study were a group of young adults, both male and female, who were selected for their health and vitality. The experiments were designed to measure the rate of growth and development of the body, and to determine the factors which influence this process. The results of the study show that the rate of growth and development is influenced by a number of factors, including age, sex, and the amount of exercise and rest. The study also shows that the rate of growth and development is highest in the early years of life, and that it gradually decreases as the individual grows older. The study is of great importance, as it provides valuable information on the factors which influence the growth and development of the human body. This information can be used to help individuals to maintain their health and vitality, and to prevent the development of various diseases and disorders. The study is also of great interest to the medical profession, as it provides valuable information on the factors which influence the growth and development of the human body. This information can be used to help doctors to diagnose and treat various diseases and disorders, and to develop new methods of treatment. The study is a valuable contribution to the field of medicine, and it is hoped that it will be of great use to the medical profession and to the general public.

Trading on a reduced volume of slaughter has continued slow in the San Francisco wholesale meat market. More Good grade steer beef is available, and there's less cow and lower grades of beef in the market. Prices have held unchanged on steer and heifer beef but have advanced $1.00 per hundredweight on Canner and Utility grades of cow beef. Beef ribs are selling $5.00 per hundredweight below a week ago. Veal continues in light supply but unchanged in price. And there has been practically no change on lamb and mutton. Ample supplies of pork are selling on a downward price trend, with fresh pork loins and picnics down $1.00 to $2.00 per hundredweight, and butts down $6.00 per hundredweight. Smoked pork cuts also are lower priced. Smoked picnics are down $4.00 per hundredweight, and smoked bacon is $2.00 to $3.00 per hundredweight lower. Refined lard has advanced 50 cents per hundredweight.

There has been little change in the wholesale butter market. Top grades have gained 1/2-cent per pound, while Grade B(2nd Quality) has dropped another cent to a quotation to retailers of 65 to 66 cents per pound in cartons of 1/4-pound prints. Grades A&AA(1st Quality) are quoted at 68 to 69-1/2 cents per pound in cartons of 1/4-pound prints. Supplies are ample for the rather slow demand. For the week ended Dec. 1, western butter production was 5 percent above the previous week, and 14 percent above a year ago.

In the egg market, Grade "A" Large eggs have tumbled in price 9 cents per dozen, while Grade "A" Mediums are down 6 to 7 cents below a week ago, and Grade "A" Smalls are 1-cent lower. Reason -- record production and an attempt to clear supplies and keep local prices in line with prices in other areas. Quotations to retailers are: Grade "A" Large, 51 to 52 cents per dozen; Grade "A" Mediums, 43 to 44 cents per dozen; and Grade "A" Smalls, 41 to 43 cents per dozen -- all in cartons.

Demand in the poultry market continues slow to moderate for liberal supplies. As a result, prices are on a downward trend. Broilers, all weights of fryers, all weights of Loghorn hens, and old roosters are down 1-cent per pound from a week ago.

Cooler weather has resulted in a better demand in the San Francisco wholesale meat market. Generally, supplies have been ample the past week, although there has been a dearth of light-weight beef and practically no offerings of cow beef late in the week. Prices have fluctuated to some extent, with all cow beef up $1.00 to $2.00 per hundredweight. Among the beef cuts, rounds have advanced $1.00 to $2.00 per hundredweight, while ribs have dropped $2.00. Veal and lamb has hold unchanged, while ewe mutton has gained $1.00 to $3.00 per hundredweight. Fresh pork carcasses have dropped $1.00 per hundredweight, and loins are down $2.00, as are No. 1 picnics and spareribs. Fresh and smoked hams are $1.00 to $2.00 per hundredweight higher than a week ago.

Demand has improved in the wholesale butter market, where prices on top grades are slightly lower than a week ago. Grades A&AA (1st Quality) are quoted to retailers at 67 to 69-1/2 cents per pound in cartons of 1/4-lb. prints. Grade B(2nd Quality) is quoted 1/2-cent to 1-cent higher to retailers at 65 to 66-1/2 cents per pound in cartons of 1/4-lb. prints. Supplies are fully ample for demand.

Trading has been fairly active in the egg market under an improved demand for top grades. Demand has improved especially for medium sizes, with Grade "A" Mediums advancing 1-cent to a quotation to retailers of 44 to 45 cents per dozen in cartons. Heavy supplies of small sizes have resulted in a price sag of 2 cents on Grade "A" Smalls at 39 to 41 cents per dozen in cartons. Grade "A" Large are unchanged at 51 to 52 cents per dozen in cartons. Egg receipts are still considerably larger than last year.

With offerings of all classes of poultry more than ample for demand, prices gonorally have dropped 1 to 2 cents per pound on dressed weights of broilers, fryors, roasters, all weights of Loghorn hens, and colored hens. Young hen turkeys have advanced 1 to 2 cents per pound since a week ago.

There has been little change in the vegetable situation the past week. Best Buys include cabbage, cauliflower, spinach, table queen squash, and parsnips.

During the past week, there has been an excellent demand for a light slaughter of meat in the San Francisco wholesale market. A rather uneven supply of beef held unchanged in price. Veal has been in very light supply and prices have advanced $2.00 per hundredweight on Commercial and Utility grades. A very broad demand for lamb and mutton resulted in a price hike of $1.00 per hundredweight on all grades of lamb and a $2.00 to $3.00 price rise on mutton. Generous supplies of pork loins dropped $1.00 per hundredweight, while a broad demand for fresh hams upped the price $1.00 per hundredweight on them.

With demand more active in the wholesale butter market, prices have advanced 1/2-cent on top grades. Grades A&AA(1st Quality) are quoted to retailers at 67-1/2 to 70 cents per pound in cartons of 1/4-lb. prints. Grade B(2nd Quality) is unchanged from a week ago at a quotation to retailers of 65 to 66-1/2 cents per pound in cartons of 1/4-lb. prints. For the week ended Dec. 15, western butter production gained 3 percent over the previous week.

Egg prices have dropped again as the result of continued heavy receipts and a rather slow demand. Grade "A" Large are quoted 4 cents lower to retailers at 47 to 48 cents per dozen. Grade "A" Mediums are quoted 3 cents lower at 41 to 42 cents per dozen. And Grade "A" Smalls are quoted 5 cents lower at 34 to 36 cents per dozen in cartons.

Prices have dropped on practically all classes of poultry as the result of liberal offerings and only a moderate demand. Broilers, fryers and roasters are all down 1 to 2 cents per pound on dressed weights; lightweight Leghorn hens are 1-cent per pound lower and heavier weights are down 2 cents per pound; colored hens and old roosters are both selling 2 cents per pound lower; and turkeys are down 1 to 2 cents per pound from a week ago.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27 --- Still heading the list of Best Buys in fruit are Newtown apples from Santa Cruz county, grapefruit from Arizona and Imperial Valley, and limes.

Cranberries are a Good Buy, along with Comice pears and loose-pack dates from the Coachella Valley.

Large-sized Navel oranges are a Fair Buy, as are apples (except Newtowns).

Best Buys from the vegetable bin include cabbage, cauliflower, table queen squash, and parsnips.

Among the week's Good Buys are spinach, sweetpotatoes, Banana and Hubbard squash, and celery.

In the Fair Buy class are carrots, lettuce, broccoli, and artichokes.

Generally, trading has ranged from fair to good in the San Francisco wholesale meat market this past week, with pork in broad demand. Cow beef and calf and veal have been in very light supply. As a result cow beef carcasses advanced $1.00 to $2.00 per hundredweight, and all classes of veal and calf advanced $2.00 per hundredweight. Prices have held unchanged on all other classes of meat.

Supplies of butter have been ample for the rather slow demand in the wholesale market. Top grades are unchanged in price from a week ago, with Grades A & AA (1st Quality) quoted to retailers at 67-1/2 to 70 cents per pound in cartons of 1/4-lb. prints. Grade B (2nd Quality) has gained 1-cent to a quotation to retailers of 66 to 67-1/2 cents per pound in cartons of 1/4-lb. prints.
